

Heather Howe of Cape Town asked Rondebosch Library for space and they brought out a collection of animal rights books for the display.

Gaye Grenfell in KZN took it upon herself to set up a full BWC display in her Howick library in KZN, to create awareness of the organisation and the work we do.

A library member is keen to learn more about vivisection at the Milner-ton Library in the Cape.

Information was displayed and brochures were available at both Edgemean and Bothasig Libraries in Cape Town.

Anne Campbell and Bianca Bosman, with the help of librarian Anisa Khan had two areas in the Windemere Li-baray, Morningside, Durban, including space for copies of the BWC humane products lists.

Heather Howe (right) hands a BWC pamphlet to an interested library member at Claremont Library, in Cape Town.