

LIBERATE

Animal Rights Festival
4 October

Liberate is a one-day Animal Rights festival happening at Roxy's on Saturday the 4th of October.

Conceived as a 'protest within a party', the event aims to draw awareness to the unsustainable ways in which humanity exploits members of other species and the often unexpected moral and ecological crises that result from this, and to demonstrate to attendees ways of living in greater harmony with the planet and its inhabitants.

Speakers: International guest speaker Dr. Steve Best (www.drstevebest.org) will talk on the inseparability of animals rights, human rights and environmental responsibility; He will be supported by several prominent local activists, including Beryl Scott (Beauty Without Cruelty) and Michele Pickover (Animal Rights Africa).

Films: Liberate will host the African premiere of 'Meat the Truth', a new documentary on the links between meat consumption and climate change. Best described as 'The Real Inconvenient Truth', this film is definitely not to be missed! Other animal rights related films will be screened throughout the festival, including the Joaquin Phoenix-narrated 'Earthlings' and various shorts. See website for full schedule.

Party: It's not all films and lectures though - a large number of rock, pop, alternative, folk and electronic acts are joining us for the day, including UFO, Jane Rademeyer, The Gin, Hasten the Storm, One Mighty Atom, Owl, Scott Scot & Tryst. We've also got some awesome DJ's lined up.

Art: Liberate will showcase a range of creative talent, playing host to a dedicated exhibition space and several animal rights related performances.

Stalls: Various members of the local animal rights / activist community will be hosting shops and info-stalls at Liberate, including Animal Rights Africa, BWC, FOR A & CLAW. Vegan meals will be served courtesy of the SA Vegan Society and fully stocked bars will be open all day and night.

Charity: Profits will be used by Beauty Without Cruelty to further their educational work and donated to various animal-related charities.

Details: Address: Roxy's - 1st Ave, Melville. Entrance R50. Open 12PM till late.
