

"We often speak of human rights, of caring and respect - in particular of those suffering from HIV or Aids. How can we do that when we not only make profit off the lives of animals, but feed on their disease? How can we call ourselves human when we cannot accept custodianship of those who need our care and respect most? Until we cannot take care of the animals for the simple reason of just taking care of them, the world is lost and so too, is the human race."
